

I do not believe it would be in the best interests of America (and Americans). Controlling what happens in the privacy of our homes, with a signal that freely comes into it, seems to go against the spririt of the founding fathers of this country--not to mention that it tramples "fair use". I also do not believe this is something the FCC should be doing, but that if "this flag concept" must happen, it should be created by Congress as law. Thank you for your time.
